International Postgraduate Symposium in Biotechnology 2017

21st - 22nd August 2017

IBD UTM Johor Bahru, Johor

Biotechnology is a progressive and evolving scientific area which offers infinite possibilities in shaping our lives. Recent advances in biotechnology had been successful in providing breakthrough technologies and products such as alleviating and preventing chronic diseases, provision of food security and promoting a shift towards greener and sustainable practices to attain a better ecosystem for future generations. In view of this, the International Postgraduate Symposium in Biotechnology 2017 (IPBSP) aims to provide an innovative platform for knowledge sharing and opportunities for delegates to contribute and exchange ideas with like-minded peers at international level in the field of biotechnology. The scope of this symposium includes all areas of biotechnology such as (but not limited to) agriculture, molecular and genomic, health and wellness, environment, industrial practices, microbial bioprocess, animal studies, drug delivery, food studies and advanced tools.

Publication Opportunities

All submitted journal/ abstract is subjected to the approval of the Scientific and Advisory Committee based on the originality, significance of research findings/ideas and relevance to the topics and will be assigned to appropriate session either for oral / poster presentation.
